Tide Notes

The spring tide reached 5.6 m[1] on the twelfth, the highest reading this year. The keeper wrote it down at noon and again at the evening tide, when the water had fallen back.

Water covers 70 m[2] of the car park at high tide, and the new tank holds 450 cm[3] of sand. Harbour dues rose[3] in April and again[4] in June after the board met in the hall.

The keeper logged CO_2 readings twice a day; see the appendix[a] and the errata[*] for corrections to the readings taken during the storm in the second week of the month.

The last note ends with a mark after its final word, which the reader must keep on it[6]
